TAKES A SLAP AT WICKERSHAM

SENATOR SIMMONS ATTACKS
HIS POLICY IN COTTON SPEC-ULATION CASE.

PARTIALITY IS SHOWN

Says Simmons, by Fact that Attorney
General is Going After Bulls
Only—Should Get After The Bears.

Washington, May 4.—Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, in the senate today attacks the methods of the department of justice in its prosecution of the cotton pool. Complaining of partiality in the enforcement of the Sherman anti-trust law, he said in planning to prosecute the bulls and not the bears, the department had undertaken only partial prosecution. Simmons said that the proceedings amounted to usurpation of authority.

Senator Simmons made a bitter complaint against the course and said it had the effect of placing real cotton men in the light of speculators when their efforts had been in the opposite direction. He contended that contracts of future sales should be for real, not sham delivery. The attorney general's attitude toward the price of cotton was sharply criticized.

"He has the whole matter wrong. Prices are not abnormally high,"

HEYBURN SAID HE WAS INSULTED

STINGING DEBATE IN THE SEN-

ATE BETWEEN BULKELEY AND HEYBURN.

RETRACTION BY FORMER

Made When Chair Upheld Heyburn's
Appeal—Matter Arose Over
Trouble Heyburn Had His Mail.

Washington, May 4.—The word "insulting" was used in a debate in the senate today. It was applied by Senator Heyburn to the remarks concerning him made by Senator Bulkeley.

The Idaho senator, discussing the postoffice department bill, stated that in order to insure their reaching their destination he was compelled to register all the United States maps sent out by him. Bulkeley interpreted the statement as a reflection on the postoffice department and said he had contrary experience. He added that he did not know what should be the difference between Idaho and Connecticut. Something about this matter caused the senators to laugh, and this manifestation of mirth provoked protests from Heyburn. He said Bulkeley's remarks were "insulting," and it was regrettable that the senate should be turned into a "giggling

When the dinner advanced to the fourth course the king arose and all the guests stood. The king thereupon made a speech welcoming the distinguished American and proposed a toast to his health. The former president, responded, thanking his majesty for his reception.

WRONG REPORT ON DEMOCRATS

MINORITY SENATORS SAY THEY
DID NOT AGREE WITH REGU-LARS TO VOTE AGAINST CUMMINS AMENDMENT.

Washington, May 4.—Some of the details of the agreement by which the Cummins amendment to the traffic agreement was kept out of the railroad bill in the senate were given out by the Democrats today in view of the report that the minority party had agreed to vote against the Cummins provision.

Bacon denied the report, and said the Republican organization leaders tried to get the Democrats to agree to vote against the Cummins amendment to provide that railroads must get the approval of the interstate commerce commission in making changes of rates, but that they refused. They were willing, however to pledge their vote to "table" all amendments to section seven in return for a pledge that the section thereafter should be stricken out.

ST. LOUIS GAVE TAFT BIG TIME

PRESIDENT IN SPEECH MAKES USUAL PLEA FOR JUSTICE FROM PRESS.

VISITED BALL GAMES

Union Men Protested Against Him
Going to American League
Park, But Did Not Heed Them.

St. Louis, May 4.—President Taft's five days trip through the middle west ended here today and he left late tonight for Washington, where he is scheduled to arrive early Friday morning.

It remained for St. Louis to give Taft the heartiest demonstration of the journey.

The warmth of the reception given him here seemed to affect the president and when, at the luncheon of the Business Men's League late in the afternoon, President Hill praised him amid deafening applause for the appointments of Lurton and Hughes to the supreme bench, Taft launched into a vigorous speech in which he paid his respects to Bryan for his reported criticism of Governor Hughes, and declared the "cant of the demagogue" and the "disposition of the public journals" to make unjust charges against men in public life.

"All I am appealing for is justice and a square deal," the president said, "not especially for myself, for indeed I am in a position where I can get along better than some of the rest without it. But I am appealing for justice in dealing with a classes."

The president declared that he held the appointment of men to the supreme court to be the most sacred of his duties. His speech aroused the business men to high pitch of enthusiasm. Taft intended to say only a word or two, but the cheers seemed to inspire him. He defined the judicial and legislative functions of the government and their relations, at length. He referred to the criticism of one appointment and said it came from mistaking prejudicial views, and deplored the utterances of some of the papers tending to stir class feeling. He believed that the Democrats and insurgents who are patriotic are in favor of having on the bench the foes of wrong. Many of the charges of corporate greed and monopoly he thought unjust. He closed with a grateful tribute for his reception.

Earlier in the day the president made a speech on the Panama canal at the breakfast of the Commercial Club and addressed the Farmers' Union in the Coliseum on the subject of conservation.

After the Business Men's League luncheon, the president visited both baseball games, first to National Park and then to the American League park.

Some of the labor unions protested against the president visiting the American game because they claim the grand stand in Cleveland was built by non-union men. As the president has announced that he strongly opposed boycotts, he paid no heed to the protest.

"The game of baseball," he said, is a clean, straight game and it summons to its presence everybody who enjoys clean, straight athletics. I like to go for two reasons; first because I enjoy it, second because if by the presence of a temporary chief magistrate such healthy amusement can be encouraged, I want to encourage it."

The president was deeply gratified at the news from Washington that forty-three Republican senators agreed to stand together on the administration railroad bill as amended by the dropping of the so-called "pooling" and "merger" paragraphs. He refrained, however, from commenting on the situation, except to say that he hoped this combination in the senate would pull the bill through in good shape.

Tonight as the last function of his busy day, the president was the guest of honor at a banquet of the Traffic Club.

Wherever he went today the president was accompanied by Governor Hadley, former Governor, David R. Francis, and Chairman Nathan Frank of the local reception committee.

Must Look after His "Fence"

Simmons said, "certainly not above the level of prices fixed by the tariff and in the interest of monopoly."

He declared that there had been no protest from the attorney general when the bears squeezed $15 out of the price of cotton.

He contended that the high prices of the present day were due to short crops and other natural causes, and refused to concede that the government had any right to interfere for the purpose of affecting the price of the staple.

"It is startling as it is unpatriotic, and it is as unpatriotic as it is untenable," he said, speaking of the attorney general's course.

(died); B. Franklin Bayles, Decatur, Mich.; (died); Archie P. Drake, Iowa Falls, Ia.; (died); Mathew Robinson, Pana, Ill.

Following the suggestion of Andrew Carnegie, the commission voted from its surplus $100,000 to the Carnegie Technical schools, with the provision that it be used for trade school features.

Bulkeley said if the Idaho senator's maps were lost, he had a right to complain, and concerning Heyburn, he said:

"His very presence on the floor is apt to cause a little amusement."

Heyburn appealed to the chair, "No senator on the floor is entitled to make a remark so full of intentional insult as that spoken by the senator from Connecticut," he said. "The rules provide protection against such treatment."

Bulkeley was beginning to say that he had merely undertaken to defend the postoffice department, but Heyburn would not permit him to proceed. He demanded a ruling on the question of privilege which he raised. Yielding, the vice president held that the remark of the Connecticut senator to be in disparagement of his colleague.

Bulkeley was proceeding to say that if he had said anything disturbing to the peace of mind of the senator from Idaho he would withdraw the remark. Even this did not satisfy Heyburn, but the chair held it to be sufficient amends and the incident was closed.

WANT FEDERAL SANCTION FOR BIG EXPOSITION.

Chicago, May 4.—Fresh from the meeting where $4,000,000 was raised for an exposition to celebrate the opening of the Panama canal at San Francisco, Governor Gillett of California, and a party of eighteen arrived today en route to Washington. Their purpose is to secure federal sanction for the exposition.

SALOON LICENSE FRAUD

Alleged Village of West Hammond,
Ind., Has Been Swindled Out of $50,000.

Chicago, May 4.—A fifty thousand dollars saloon license fraud in West Hammond, Ind., is charged by the Golsen-Doan Coal Company in a suit filed here today.

The bill alleges that four of the six members of the village board of trustees are saloon owners and the board for three years has been issuing saloon licenses below $500, the regular fee. In this manner, the village has been defrauded of legal tax. The coal company asks an injunction restraining the trustees issuing licenses below $500.
